Privacy Policy 2023

Privacy Policy

Effective date: August 12, 2023.

At Wilderness Canoe, we are committed to respecting your privacy choices and being transparent about what information we collect from you and how we use that information.

We do not share, sell, license, trade, or read your personal information to others except in the ways explained in this privacy policy.

The purpose of this privacy policy is to help you understand:

- a. Why we collect personally identifiable information;
- b. What personally identifiable information we collect;
- c. How we use that information, including how the information is stored and whether we share the information with third parties; and
- d. Your choices regarding our collection, use and distribution of your information.

Your consent to this privacy policy

By using this website, you consent to the terms of this Privacy Policy.

What information does Wilderness Canoe collect?

We collect two types of information personally identifiable information and anonymous information. You can visit this website without identifying who you are or revealing any information about yourself.

Personally identifiable information is information that specifically identifies a particular user such as name, email address or phone number. Anonymous information is information that cannot be connected to the identity of a specific individual. For example, a site may record the number of visits to a particular page that occur in a given period of time, but that does not necessarily provide the names or other identifying information of each visitor.

Our courses have been designed for the outdoor enthusiast with an adventurous spirit.

Privacy Policy 2023

When you place an order for our services, or enrol in one of our journeys/expeditions, we collect certain information to process your request for information and/or services.

What are cookies and how are they used?

Cookies are small data files, typically made up of a string of text, that assign you a unique identifier. This information enables our website to receive information from your computer to provide a more tailored and user-friendly experience for you. For example, if you login to our site we may be able to personalize your experience by recognizing your name when you return to the site, save your login and your password, or enable a shopping cart. Our newsletters may use cookies to measure the effectiveness of our marketing efforts (for example, tracking the clicks on the links in our emails and newsletters) or we may use cookies to determine the number of times website visitors have accessed a particular area or page on the website. Most web browsers have a function that allows you to delete existing cookies on your device or you can set your browser option so that your device does not receive or except cookies.

How does Wilderness Canoe use the information we collect?

a. Non-personally identifiable information

We may use non-personally identifiable information, like data about the most visited site pages or the duration of certain site page visits that are not tied to a specific site user, to maintain, improve, and protect our site and our product and service offerings.

b. Personally identifiable information

When you sign up for our newsletter, we use the name and email address that you provided to subscribe to our newsletter and/or our email list. We will send you periodic newsletters and/or emails. We store the name and email address that you provided in an SSL encrypted database.

When you purchase a digital product or our services we use the personal information you provide to process the transaction and deliver your digital product and/or service, and to provide you customer service as necessary. We store this information in an SSL encrypted database.

Social Media Widgets

Our website includes several social media features, including [Facebook, etc.] buttons. These features may collect your IP address, the pages you are visiting on our site, and may set a cookie to enable the feature to function properly. These features and widgets are either hosted by a third party or hosted directly on our site. Your interactions with
